- Practical experience was published in several specialized books & medias:
 - a digital library
 - more than 8 technical books
- Due to the flexible office concept, the ECG – head quartered in Berlin - is at all times willing and prepared to accomplish project meetings and workshops outside of Berlin (e.g. in Frankfurt, New York or in more than 800 other locations abroad as well as in Germany).

Our Triple "E" Value Proposition: Empathy (!), Expertise and Experience

Empathy - The capability to scope and realise the emotional and social impact and its implications for solving the problem

Expertise - The capability to select and exploit best in class methodologies and process skills

Experience - The capability to proactively use accumulated knowledge for shaping an unknowable future

Our consulting principles (1)

Success of our clients

We exert ourselves with highest commitment for measurable and sustainable success (for our clients)

Discretion

We do not recruit with the names of our clients for us.
We avoid publications over our commitments.

Process orientation

We work together with our clients on the solution - the process is as important as the result.

Implementation orientation

We recommend only “feasible solutions” as well as strengthable for the organization.

We help during the implementation process.

Development of our coworkers

We want that our coworkers develop their abilities and their personality systematically.

We build on team spirit.

Our consulting principles (2)

ECG Management Consulting GmbH ("ECG") is an innovative consulting company. ECG represents partners with a more than fifteen years track record in industry and management consulting. All partners spend a considerable amount of time in best in class consulting firms and served in leading positions in industry. ECG empathy partners share values, quality principles and methodologies with complementary competences.

ECG partners have gained reputation in a selected client base as well as in public. Partners act both in their capacity as entrepreneurs and management consultants. As a principle clients value a relationship with a dedicated and trusted partner who can rely on the skillbase of ECG to forge a problem specific client/consultant team.

ECG partners act as pilots to the enterprise by putting structure, processes, skills, people and systems in place to enable the enterprise to transform itself. In contrast to the classical consulting approach ECG empathy discards the deployment of hierarchical teams (pyramids). The client acquires the comprehensive competence of a dedicated partner augmented by problem specific ECG resources.

ECG assignments concentrate on innovation, transformation and the creation of new businesses. Typically these challenges cannot be addressed by using standard recipes and often demand sophisticated organisational learning capability. ECG partners are using the triple "E" proposition to partner with the client in managing transformation processes.

ECG is dedicated to apply and develop "best in class" process skills and methodologies. This objective is facilitated by an intensive international cooperation with leading partners in the respective areas of consulting and management science. Partners share a strong affinity to contribute to research issues in order to continuously improve this capability.
